Larger than a city block, the Learning Resources Center is the show place of the campus. Both the Library and the Programmed Learning Center have headquarters in the building where students may conduct research, listen to recordings, or watch video-taped demonstrations. Consultants help instructors convert tedious theory into compelling reolity.

Learning Center Helps Vitalize Academic Life

Student Center Reverberates With Activity

The Student Center is a place of work, a center of activity, and a way of life. Throngs of people converge on the million-dollar building each day to eat, study, conduct meetings, play pool, or wait for a ride hame. The dining room can be converted into a dance floor and the upstairs dining room doubles as a lecture hall and auditorium.

Floral Symbols Help Chronicle Fleeting Year

This was a year of flowers. Fragile petals of affirmation threatened the impetus of mechanized palitical conventions, and jaunty floral symbols shamed the demogaguery af zealats battering the appressed with the shaft of the flag. Vibrant blassams pleaded for peace in a warld surging taward annihilation. Floral tributes heralded a triumphant return fram the maan. The abartive dream af justice and gaadwill faded with the flaral symbols and simple blassams while the defeat af hunger and disease eclipsed the victory aver space. Yet around the warld the whispered laveliness of flowers praclaims eternal hope.

Before the last bricks were plastered in 1967, landscape artists and gardeners began converting the 23 buildings into a campus. Shrubbery and flawers unite the eight clusters of buildings, each courtyard having its awn planting design. Now 350 trees averlack the walks and grass.

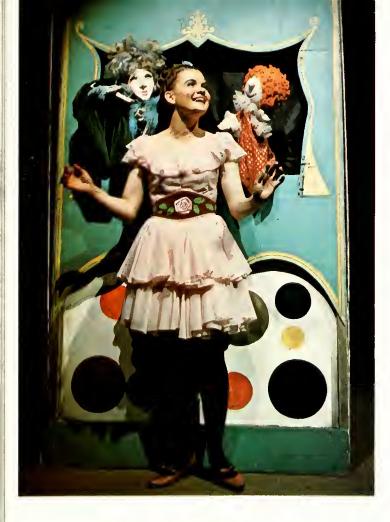

The excitement of discovering new buildings and new friends creates a breath-taking pace for everyone involved in the growth of the college. Having no upper-classmen to rely on for leadership, students are thrust into the task of developing new traditions, clubs, and programs. Freshmen learn that age and inexperience are no handicap at a junior college.

Junior College Offers Chance For Involvement

Massive Search For Private Identities

The year begins with a collection of strangers who soon closh wits in classroom debates and join hands in club projects. Housewives, mechanics, and artists assemble on the campus where together they probe the meaning of life, and each person in his own way gropes for his identity in the society beyond the campus.

In no time at all, the search for dance partners, card players, car pools, and team members melds strangers into acquaintances and finally into friends whose lives are enmeshed for at least a semester. And after having became a part of school history, each person continues his quest in other places.

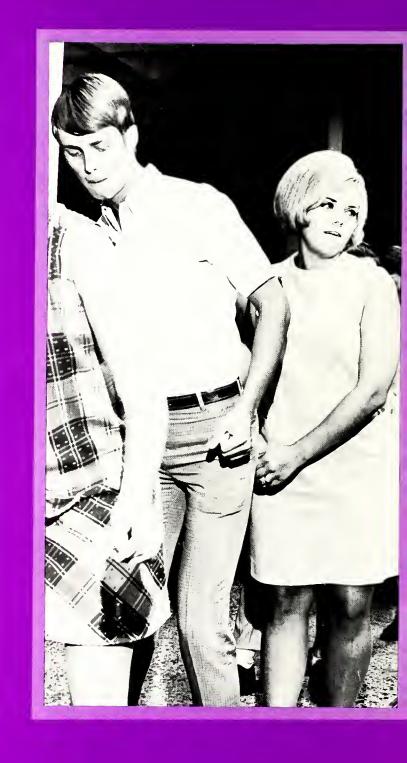

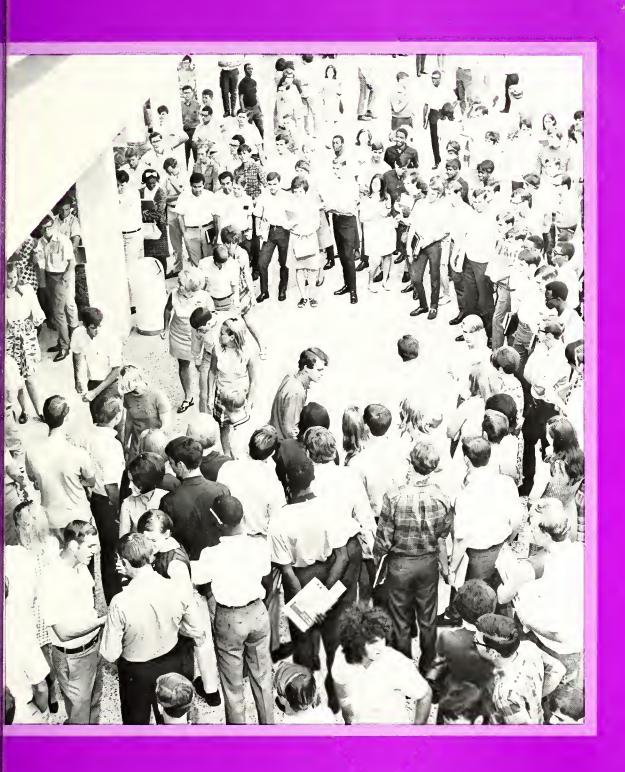

Quest Leads New Friends To Other Places

CAMPUS LIFE

♦ Howdy King and Queen, Robert Frost and Nellie Kyser, reign as Activities Council members → persuade incoming freshmen to join organizations at the Country Carnivol. ◆ The Levee Singers open the Forum series.

New Students Find Lively Welcome

The Carillon bells tolled a welcome to some 8,000 South and Nartheast Campus students during the first school week. The fall semester tale of two campuses began with a getting-to-know-you period called Howdy Week.

President and Mrs. Joe Rushing hosted o Sunday afternoon reception hanoring TCJC students an September 22 in the living room of the SUB.

Refreshments were served by Hospitality Committee members from both campuses. APO and Kappa representatives conducted tours of the South Compus sa that new students could inspect school facilities and learn their way around the campus before classes began.

During the reception the Activities Committee and various compus clubs kicked off the three-day country carnival. The SUB was transfarmed into a western town and western backgrounds were provided for clubs to carral new members. Each club decorated a baoth and displays for pramotion of their organizations.

"In Tune With the Times," the Forums Series, was begun by the Levee Singers. The singers fram Dallas proved to be a highlight of the howdy activities. They sang their own renditions af familiar ballads and papular music. The four male vocalists have appeared on notional televisian as well os college campuses.

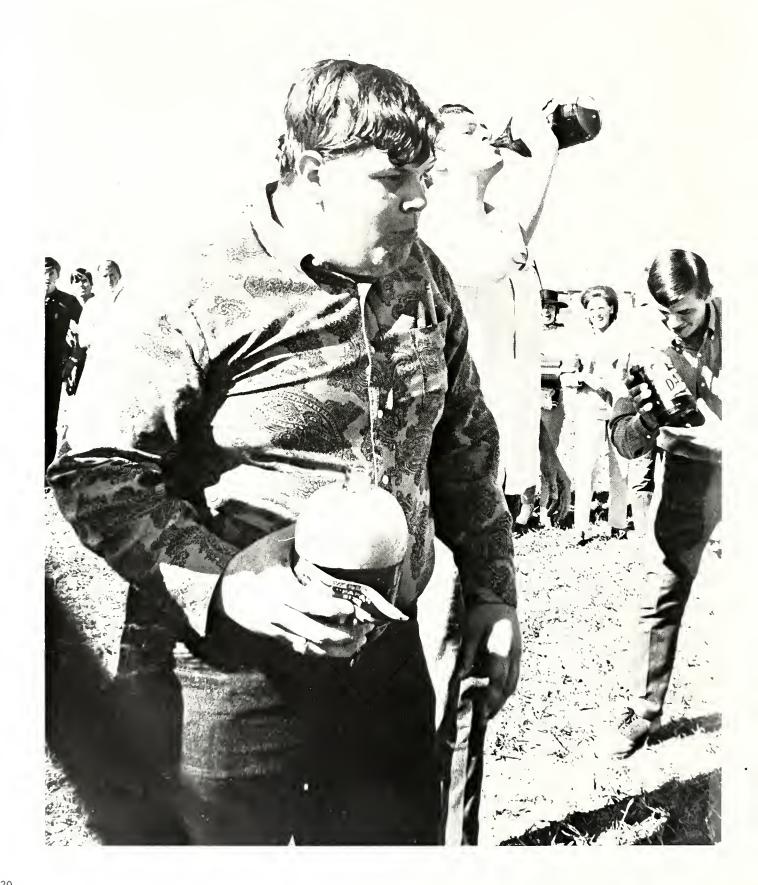

During the President's reception, Mr. and Miss TCJC, Larry Roberts and Glenda Graham, posed greetings to arriving guests such as Robert Frost who was later named Howdy King. ◆ "You Must Have Been A Beautiful Baby,"?? Counselors Pat Wood, Joe Zielinski, and Martha Post staged their skit at the Hawdy Week Talent Show.

◆ Showgirls Tanyo Weatherly, Barbara Allen, Pat Calloway, and Sally Brown tip their hats to finish off the SGA presentation on the talent show. ◆ Girls clubs and individual teams participated in the broomstick race on Western Day.

Audiences Challenged With Realities

Large audiences listened attentively to discussions of current social problems, then kept the speakers over-time with probing questions.

The Fine Arts Series was begun by Fernanda Laires, artist-in-residence and chairman af the Piana Department at Interlachen Arts Academy. Laires' Carillan Theatre cancert included five Partuguese falk sangs, and selections from Beethaven and Chapin.

Jahn Haward Griffin, author of "Black Like Me" and "The Devil Rides Outside," began his lecture with an account of a Negro hanging held as community entertainment.

Warning his audience of the dangers of stereotyping any graup, he related his misadventures traveling thraugh the Sauth disguised as a Negra. "I achieved instant degradation simply by changing the calar of my skin," he said. "In cities where I had been welcamed and hanared, I cauld na langer buy a meal ar use a rest raam and the anly thing that I had changed about me was the calar of my skin."

"The generation gap is even mare frightening than the racial gap," said Dr. Zelma Gearge, noted socialogist and musician. She urged students of all ages and races to cancentrate an being part of the salution instead of being part of the problem.

◆ Paul Winter Cantemporary Cansart renders special treatment to Jazz, Symphonic Orchestration, and Falk Music. The group has appeared at the White House. ◆ Jahn Haward Griffin lectures to a large audience in the SUB.

APO member Jerry Allen assists a new voter during the fall election for freshmen senators. Ten freshmen achieved honor as they were chosen in the school-wide election to serve as SGA senators.

◆ The last three months of 1968 was the period when classes were interrupted frequently by calls disclosing bomb threats to various campus buildings. Weekly — sometimes twice a week — during this period an anonymous telephone call to the switchboard, city police, or fire department was all it took to give students free walks. The walks were fun. ◆ Make-ups were not.

Fall Events Disrupt Class Routines

♠ Ardess Moore and Helen Carbajal won the Mr. and Miss Pumpkin titles during November's penny-a-vote contest. ↓ Jim Jones and the Chauntays played for campus dances.

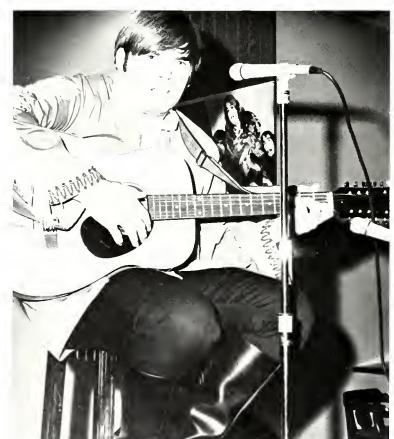

♣ A civilized manner of free expression was initiated by the Forums. Several Free Speech happenings were held in the SUB. Students were able to sound off on any topic they chose.

Young Music Sounds Hit Campus

◆ Keith Sykes, who composes the material he sings, appeared on campus through the Coffee House Circuit which includes many area calleges. ◆ Raun McKinnon brought her own brand of music to the Living Room. She prefers live composers for her versions of the falk music style. ◆ Dusty Blues sings a song he wrote depicting the loss of a love affair.

A pop singer and composer, two folk singers, and a touring group brought the musical sounds of American youth to the campus in the fall semester.

Perking up the Coffee House with a blend of falk-rock music was Raun McKinnon. "I don't really sing folk songs," she soid, "but songs written by someone who is living." Contemporary folk singer Dusty Blues, a Northeast Campus freshman, gave several November performances. Dusty, who composed some of the songs he performed, said that he likes thinking music.

In the pop vein, the Coffee House Circuit presented Keith Sykes accompanied by bass player Mike Goldfarb.

The SUB patia was packed with people when a partial cast of "Up With People" gave a preview of their TCU concert. The colorfully attired and fast paced group kept the audience applauding such songs as "Freedom Isn't Free," "What Color Is God's Skin?" and their theme song "Up With People."

No one in the group receives a salary, and traveling expenses are paid by concert tickets, contributions, and record sales. Traveling around the world with each of the three main casts are two nurses and a teacher. Callege students are affered correspondence courses through the University of Nebraska.

The young people serving in the cast of "Up With People" travel through the United States and Canada by bus.

◆ President Wintergreen and Mrs. Wintergreen rejoice over the birth of twins. ◆ Sandy Ellis keeps a wary eye on official Washington activities. ◆ Linda Maserong and Mark Satterwhite discuss election results of the love campoign.

Plays Relieve November Anxieties

While the puppeteer tries to express his love for the young girl through his puppets, she does not understand in a scene from "Carnival."

Two productions heralded November's arrival. A student production of George Gershwin's 1931 satire on political campaigns, "Of Thee I Sing," had a week-long run with packed audiences every night in the Carillon Theatre, and a few weeks later a professional touring company presented the Broadway musical "Carnival" in the Student Center.

Smalltime circus life in France provide the background for "Carnival," the sadly romantic tale of a newly arphaned waif. Written by Michael Stewart, the show featured songs by Bob Merrill, including "Love Makes The World Ga Round," a nationwide hit.

When the campus was supersaturated with politics, most campus enthusiasts cast their ballats for J. P. Wintergreen and his love campaign. Keith Tidwell as J. P. Wintergreen presidential candidate, and Judy Bryan, his first lady, proved the love campaign could sweep the country and overcome such adds as the spoils system, a bumbling vice-president, and assorted foreign schemes.

Other members of the cast were Jack Glaze, Neely Reynolds, Glenda Kirtley, Charles Sheffield, Terry Palmer, Rabert McCurdy, Ken Yandle, Steve Riley, Linda Maserang, Sandy Ellis, Bruce McCarver, and Mark Satterwhite.

Speakers Comment on Changes

Two speakers with international reputations challenged students to improve saciety, Jean Pierre Hallet appearing November 22, and Melvin Belli, December 6.

After discussing bizarre African tribal customs, Hallet — explorer, canservationist, and author — painted aut instances of American savagery and inhumanity. "Until civilization reached the African continent, killing was dane only for food. Now people can slaughter entire villages with no remorse," he said.

The 6'5" Belgian challenged Americans to develop more meaningful lives far themselves. "The number of years one lives is irrelevant," he said. "It is the quality of life that is all important."

Nated for his dramatic caurt presentations, Belli captivated the audience with his camments on the law revolution which he says is going on about us now. "The winds of change are blowing strangly," he said.

He believes that the changes are healthy ones since the primary genius af American law is its resilience. "This built-in capacity to grow enables it to adapt to the changed sacialagical and technalogical era that we have entered. He believes that the court is fulfilling an impartant function by taking nate af the realities af the warld autside the caurtraam.

◆ Noted lawyer Melvin Belli discussed the changes that are taking place in American jurisprudence. ◆ Jean Pierre Hallet enthralled a packed audience in the Living Room of the SUB.

Forum Presents Lecture Series

Before the semester change, humanitarian and author Louis Lomax spoke in the gym on "Religian, Race, Revolution," and Texas State Senator Barbara Jordan presented a speech in the Living Room concerning "Wamen in Politics." Miss Jordan is considered one of the mast influential wamen in Texas.

First performer to appear after semester tests was TCJC's own voice instructar T. N. Retif, who gave a recital in the Carillan Theatre. Mrs. Phyllis Skolaut, piana instructar, accampanied at the piana. Retif sang selections from Schumann, Heine, and Pavel, in addition ta contemporary compasitions by Leonard McCormick, who is director of choral music.

Early in February, Penn Jones was guest lecturer discussing the Kennedy Assassinations. He stated that the Kennedy deaths were related and are part of one giont conspiracy. Jones is author of "Fargive My Grief," and is also editor of the Midlathian Mirror.

April showers brought Bill Sands to the Living Room where the former in-mate of San Quentin gave a stirring lecture. Sands is devoting his life to helping ather excanvicts as well as those still in prisan. "I wish every ane cauld find the inner peace I now have simply from helping others."

↑ Texas Senator Barbara Jardan speaks to an audience filled with men as well as women as she discusses "Women in Politics." ♦ South Compus voice instructor T. N. Retif is in make-up for part of his recital in the Carillon Theatre in February.

Avolontes' Casino Party Caps Year

LA beau Mike Daugherty escarts APO sweetheart Sydney Michael.

A splash of rayal blue and kelly green heralded the debut af a new service club far girls in November. Wearing pins designed with their afficial colors, the 12 charter members began a whirl of activities.

In March, their initiation pajama party was disrupted by APO members who kidnapped the entire group and took them for an early marning breakfast.

APO also assisted them when they converted the SUB into a gambling casina on May 16. Les Avalantes members set the pace for the day with a castumed performance of a can-can during activity period. Between classes, APO members distributed play maney and presided over tables of blackjack, raulette, paker, and casino. The games continued at night when mast of the tables in the dining room were pushed back for a campus dance. Other projects included a bake sale, rummage sale, and Kiddie Day — for which prospective pledges dressed as children.

The last service project, another jaint effart with APO, was a picnic at Forest Park for twenty-eight arphans.

Officers were Pat Callaway, president; Sherry Newman, vice president; Linda Mercada, secretary; Becki Barley, treasurer, Delilah Durst, parliamentarian; Dr. Sue Nordquist and Miss Neva Peters, spansars.

Kappa Adds New Campus Events

KAPPA beau John Farley escarts Taurus sweetheart Kathy Klint.

Kappa repeated several campus activities this year and introduced four new ones. The girls service sararity planned competition and provided prizes for the traditional Sadie Hawkins Day, the Easter Egg Hunt, and the Ugly-Man-an-Campus Contest — a fund raising project.

New activities were a Slave Sale, Kappa Karols, Kappa Kite Flight, and a Christmas Presentation.

On the first service project, they made Halloween puppets and puzzles for children at Peter Smith Hospital.

Other projects included collecting food for needy families for Thanksgiving by sponsoring a dance with a can of food as the admission price, collecting and sending cards and books to Vietnam, tutoring underprivileged children, and taking orphans to the zoo.

New members and their dates were honored with a hay-ride and a wiener roast in the fall, and pledges were treated to a Hooty Hunt in the spring.

Kappa officers for the year were Sally Brown, president; Dreda Adkins, vice-president; Karen Haell, secretary; Kathy Klint, treasurer; Tanya Weatherly, parliamentarian; Cheri Mitchell, historian; Gere Knox, sergeantat-arms; Falah Benton, chaplain; Trudy Herring, pledge captain; Cheri Mitchell, ICC representative; Mrs. Betty Clark, spansar.

The trail of Alpho Phi Omega services extended to Peter Smith Hospital, and the roster included Trini Lopez.

The group gave Lapez an honorory membership while he was serving as co-master of ceremonies at the Miss Teenage America Pageant and they were ushering at the new convention center.

Members also ushered for Rowan and Martin's "Camedy Concert" at the new center. Less glamorous assignments included untangling abundant snarled traffic jams at the beginning of school and policing all campus dances and elections.

At Christmas Bill Sweeney alias Santa Claus delivered gifts from the club which included candy and tays to the children's ward of Peter Smith Hospital.

Major activities included spring and fall camp-auts at Camp Le Roy, a beard-growing cantest, a St. Patrick's Day dance, a basketball game, and a pool tournament.

Their sweetheart Sydney Michael was chosen from twenty-five candidates interviewed by all members.

Officers receiving special recognition at their Award Banquet in April were Joe Clegg, president; Larry Sweeney, vice president; Chuck Luke, secretary-treasurer; Charles Happ, ICC representative; Carroll Cammons, Don Richard, and Sheldon Mapel, sponsors.

Taurus Wins Basketball Honors

Taurus sweetheart Kathy Klint.

Taurus, another new organization, combined service and pleasure in an action-packed round of activities.

The fraternity established themselves as kings of the court by defeating KXOL Bumbling Basketeers, APO, and a Dallas Baptist College fraternity.

In February they scored a one-point victory over the KXOL team. Highlight of the game was Tim Davies' charge to the opposition's basket. They defeated APO with once again a one-point victory.

During the gran dopening of the Tarrant County Convention Center in November, six members served as ushers at various events: Ben Adkins, John Farley, John Merrett, Roy Prater, Ron Turpin, and Victor Walker.

On a more serious note Taurus pledges participated in the Big Brother Program for boys ages 7-17. Projected activities for next year will be a special outing once a month in which Taurus members will take a fatherless boy for a day's activities to help provide needed masculine companionship and identity.

A fishing trip to Lake Whitney climaxed their spring social activities. The catch was small but the fun, big.

Officers were Roy Prater, president; Myran Smith, vice-president; Larry Guirsier, treasurer; John Farley, master-at-arms. Timothy Davies is faculty advisor.

Initiates Pledge Ideals of Scholarship

Vanette Medlen lights the candle for Marilyn Scherer during Phi Theta Kappa installation.

Phi Theta Kappa pledges received ribbons and information at a coke party for the Rho Chi chapter of the national honor society for junior college students.

In November, new members promised to maintain the ideals of scholarship in a candlelight initiation. Each pledge received a blue ribbon and a pin symbolizing wisdom, aspiration, and purity. Dr. Miltan Smith, Dean of Instruction, was guest speaker.

Members of Phi Theta Kappa were able to take part in the Hanors Study Program during the year. The program had as its purpose the discovery of ideals that formed the basis for accomplishment during the first six decades of the nineteenth century. Goals far this particular study were the additions to ane's own intellectual, aesthetic, and cultural background.

Membership in the group was limited to those who had achieved a grade point average of 3.5 after ane full semester. Freshmen had to maintain an average of not less than 3.3 while Sophomores had to keep a 3.0. If these averages were not maintained the student was dropped from the roster.

Officers were James Simmons, president; Vanette Medlin, vice-president; Vikki Warren, secretary; Esther Berkley, treasurer; Mrs. Martha Holmes, sponsor.

Veteran convention delegates, Texos Student Education Association members, hosted a state meeting and attended district, regional, and national conferences.

Lost summer, three delegates — Beverly Ihnfeldt, Betty Miller, and Mrs. Virginia Gee — represented the school at the Twelfth Annual Council of State Presidents at the National SEA Convention in Houston.

Christmas holidays were spent making posters and signs for the state convention held in Fart Warth.

In March, they ottended a workshop at Hotel Texas where they discussed improving junior callege chapters, lowering the vating age, and changing counselor images.

Two weeks later a delegation porticipated in a regional National Education Association Conference in Oklahoma City.

Members spread Christmas cheer to a family of nine children by shawering the children with faod and clothing. Other club projects included a candy sale, a Christmas party, and a Miss Eoster Bunny contest. Winner of the contest was Sydney Michael, APO sweetheart.

At their spring banquet at Vance Godby's, Esther Berkley received the Outstanding Member Plaque and Betty Miller the $100 Virginia Gee Scholarship.

The BSU proved unquestionably that Baptists don't have to smoke and drink to have a good time.

Their proof included a Chorlie Brown Holloween social, a breakfast for their favorite professors, and a Christmas banquet at Jetton's cafeteria. Club members also participated in a mid-winter retreat held at the Santa Fe ski basin, a spring fling at Hardin-Simmons University, a November dillibop, and a leadership training conference also at Hardin-Simmons.

The club's 50 members met at least once a week for devotions and programs. Phil Hughes served as director; Dr. Robert Platt, Sandy Sullivan, and Mrs. Jewel Conniff were the faculty advisors.

Among the year's activities, the club scheduled a program by Bill Pearson's musical group from the Travis Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth. The group attended the State Convention which was also held at the Travis Avenue church.

Officers were James Graville, president; and Glenda Oliver, secretary. Chairman of other committees are Carol Leith and Lynn Lethcoe, Angie Hilbert, Ardess Moore, Janice Gravelle, Robert Blockmon, Sandy Ellis, Mary Estep, and Gayla Giles.

Historians Seek New Dimensions

Dimensions of history, from the American Negro culture to Hitler's oppression of Jews, were vividly projected through programs sponsored by the History Club.

Pulitzer Prize winner, Dr. John Carroll, movie and television consultant, spoke in March on "Why Mavies Aren't Whot They Used To Be." Bill Hendricks, Star-Telegram reporter, reloted some experiences in Vietnam.

History instructor, Reby Cary, spoke on the historical role of the Negro in the US. Cary has developed a series of transparencies on American history that treat the rales of all racial groups equally.

German native Hans Kurkowski, German instructor, spoke about Hitler and living under dictatorship.

A major activity was a visit to the Convention Center to take part in a nationwide closed circuit questionond answer session with the Presidential Cabinet.

A scholarship was affered to history students as a club project to spark interest in teaching.

James Butin took first place in black belt division over 16 entrants in the Southern US Karate Championship held at University of Mississippi in April. Also entered were Gary Hestilaw and Ken Bradford.

Butin, Bradford, and Hestilaw competed in the Seventh Annual US Karate Championship Tournament.

In addition to winning championships, the Karate Club held classes in beginning and advanced karate as well as women's self-defense.

Butin demonstrated the power of karate at a "smashin" to initiate club sweetheart, Helen Carbajal.

Members ended the year by participating in the Fort Worth Karate Belt Contest in Forest Park. Included in the panel of judges were Jhoon Rhee, highest ranking black belt in the US; and James Butin, club president.

Nurses Plan State Convention

Evelyn Stanfield and Mayola Lasater, sophomore nursing students, prepare for octual operating room experience.

Members of the Nursing Students Association are making plans now for the state convention they will host next year. Julie Weiler, freshman, was elected director of the state organization.

A delegation of freshmen and sophomores attended the state meeting of TNSA in Houston.

When the largest club in school conducted bake sales last fall, one member was excused from kitchen chares. James Austin, the only male on the 93-member roster of NSA, attended all monthly socials, lectures, and films planned to introduce members to each other and to their profession.

Crisp pin-striped uniforms were discorded for the Christmas party since no one was admitted without a costume and a gift of food. The food was later arronged in gift boxes and presented to needy families.

The Fort Worth Opti-Mrs. contributed $540 to freshmen nurses for uniforms and supplies. Nine nurses were chosen by the Financial Aids Committee on the basis of academic ochievement to receive $60 each.

Business Club Makes Profit

Jim Boulter, Sponsors Cloy Stout and Richard Hancock, and Tim Holland install a jukebox in the SUB for club revenue and student enjoyment.

Richest Club in school was Phi Beta Lambda, business club, sponsored by Richard Hancock.

Their ingenious profit making project was a jukebox strategically located in the SUB where they won friends and gross receipts without really trying. When they were not counting their money, they toured various businesses in surrounding areas and listened to speakers to learn more about new trends and procedures in business.

The award for Outstanding Business Student of the year was presented to James Simmons at the club's spring banquet held at Fairway Cross Keys Restaurant. J. Lee Johnson III was guest speoker for the banquet.

Johnson, business leader in the Fort Worth community for more than a decade, served as Adjunct Professor of Management at TCU.

Simmons, who was selected as Rotary Club Studentof-the-Month for November, was also selected for Who's Who in American Junior Colleges. The Outstanding Business Student Award is a scholarship payable to any four-year institution the honoree wishes to attend.

Whether exploring private hangups or public mental health facilities, thirty Psychology Club members work as a group.

Bi-monthly bull sessions, open to interested students, were interspersed with field trips during the year.

Informal sessions in the SUB proved popular as the meets often became weekly. Discussions ranged from rearing children to the purpose of life; from multiple personality to the world today.

Shortly after school opened, club members toured the National Institute of Mental Health Clinical Research Center. Dr. Richard Can Cimi briefed the group on patient problems including a sense of inadequacy, guilt, desire to be one of the group, withdrowal from society, and inability to cope with surroundings.

Most popular tour of the year was a rerun. Members visited the Denton State School for mentally retarded children for the second time and found this area to be most educational for Psychology students.

The club's yearly project featured the award-winning film, "Three Faces of Eve." Open to all, the film was followed by discussions on multiple personalities.

SGA Earns Top State Honors

The South Campus Carillon's ring of authority and accomplishment is due in part to the Student Government Association on campus. At the 1969 state convention of the Texos Junior College Student Council Association, the South Campus SGA was presented a ploque naming it as the outstanding student government ossociation in the state of Texas.

The SGA achieved this success as a result of its efficient organizational structure and its concern for all areas of student life. SGA activities branched out during the school year. It passed a Student Bill of Rights and Responsibilities, and created the Academic Affairs committee to hear student grievances concerning academic policies and procedures.

SGA also worked in the area of leadership development by attending various retreats and seminars over the year. SGA took part in many state and notional organizations of student government. Gary Pillars, SGA president attended Governor Preston Smith's conference for college student government presidents while other SGA personnel attended the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association in Corpus Christi.

Council Provides Varied Activities

After classes, many students found relaxation and excitement at the many co-curricular social, recreational, and cultural activities furnished by the Activities Council.

Howdy Week planning and coordination, as well as the over-all student union program, fell under the council's domain.

Not ones to handle student activities blindly, members of the council trained for their jobs at various seminars during the year. In August, Chairman Garry Ivey and member Sally Brown attended the University of Texas at Austin Leadership Training Lab at Wimberly.

December found the entire council in New Orleons attending the Association of College Unions Region XII Annual Conference. The conference provided workers in college student union programs with instructions on leadership techniques.

These conferences and other local leadership seminars enabled the Activities Council to work with knowledge and confidence in booking campus events.

The cauncil was camposed of the chairman of the eight activities committees and chaired by SGA second vice president Garry Ivey.

Danny Washmon, Carol McGriff, and Garland Hutsan begin to moke plans for next year's activities.

Students Select Campus Performers

The beat went on . . . on around TCJC thanks to the Campus Entertainment Committee. Charged with bringing the world of show biz to the South Campus, the committee succeeded with astonishing regularity.

The "Up With People" show on the campus potio early in the fall started the Campus Entertainment Committee's fall progrom off with a standing ovation. It also initiated a love affair between the patriotic singing group from fifteen countries and TCJC students.

Opening a coffee house series of folk singers for the campus was the biggest challenge that faced the entertainment-oriented committee. By joining a circuit of four other Texas schools, TCJC brought five polished acts to the campus for week long runs in the South Campus' own coffee house setting.

Raun McKinnon, folk-rock artist, was the first coffee house attraction. Keith Sykes and Martin Golfarb appeared next, followed by TCJC's own folk singer Dusty Blues closing the fall runs. The spring semester brought David and Dan, Mary Ellen Smith, "The Radiant Set," "The Chonging Tyde," and Brian Carney.

CAMPUS ENTERTAINMENT Thelma Nichols, Danny Washmon, Jim Hosfelt, and Jewel Copeland decorate the SGA office.

Dance Group Sets Lively Pace

From "Cakes and Combo" on the patio at activity period to a Christmas formal, the Dance Committee moved the feet of South Campus students. Headed by Patricia Callaway, the Dance Committee planned a major monthly dance as well as morning casual dances.

The committee's invitation of "Shall We Dance?" began in September with the western flavor of the Hawdy Dance. Robert Frost and Nellie Kyser were crowned Howdy King and Queen at the dance. Other dances included a Halloween Hop, a Turkey Trot, a Christmas formal, a Valentine dance, a casual March dance to announce Mr. and Miss TCJC and school favorites, a Sadie Hawkins Day dance, and a Casino Affair dance in May.

Behind the scenes of all the dances were the Dance Committee's planning and work. The committee selected bands for the dances, bringing such groups as the "Fresh Air," "Jim Jones and The Chaunteys," the "Red Hearts," and "The Soul Purpose" to the affairs.

Members of the committee included Chuck Sheffield, Glenda Oliver, Sherry Newman, Deborah McAdao, Shirley Thomos and Delilah Durst.

Commission Keeps Polls Honest

As Dallas and the IBM men found out in the 1968 Presidential Election, counting ballots is done best by humans. At TCJC, the job was embodied in the all human Election Commission.

Operating under the constitutional by-laws of the SGA, the Election Commission was entrusted with the duties of overseeing ballot boxes at elections, counting votes, and verifying that the elections were conducted fairly and honestly.

Seven students composed the committee, including a chairman appointed by SGA. The Election Commission had two chairmen during the 1968-69 school year. Fall chairman was Norman Barnes and spring chairman, Kathy Klint. Other commission members included Bill Allen, Carol McKelvey, Greg Plopp, Terry Wilemon, and Reginal Young.

The Election Commission supervised such elections as SGA officers and senotors, Mr. and Miss TCJC and class favorites and beauties. APO members worked with the commission in checking student ID's and seeing that someone was always present at the ballot boxes.

Group Plans Films and Games

Planning days and evenings of fun through films and games was the prime time consuming activity of the Films and Games Committee.

In the area of games, the committee sponsored a sounds like an Academy Awards line-up. Popular films were the cinema's adaptation of John Steinbeck's novel "East of Eden," and Robert Penn Warren's novel "All the Kings Men," Sidney Paitier's "A Raisin in the Sun," "One Potato, Twa Patato," "The Ipcress File," "The Cardinal," "Advise ond Consent," "Fiasco in Milan," "Fahrenheit 451," and "Charade." The Films and Games Committee, in cannection with the French Club, sponsored the French classic love stary "The Umbrellas of Cherbourg." The committee joined with the Psychology Club to view and review Joanne Woodward's multiple personality cose in "The Three Faces of Eve."

"In Tune With the Times" heralded the 1968-69 bingo party after one film, and a chess tournament in February. Heading the list of favored games played at school were Spades, Bridge and pool.

Committee Arranges Art Series

FINE ARTS COMMITTEE Betty Miller, Frank Whitehead, Beverly Ihnfeldt.

Cultivating the field of culture, sprinkling the harvest with variety, and bringing the best to TCJC — this was the task of the Fine Arts Committee.

The committee, in associating with the Division of Fine Arts, presented seven outstanding evenings of entertainment for campus students. The committee sponsored (in order of their appearance on campus) clossical pianist Fernando Laires, a lecture by Dr. Zelma George on "Negro Music — Its Effect an American Culture," the musical "Cornival" played by Denner's Third Eye Theatre, a national touring company performing Edgar Lee Master's "Spoon River Anthology," classical guitarist Jorge Marel, the University of Texas Experimental Jazz Ensemble, and the "Paul Winter Contemporary Consort."

Thus the Fine Arts Committee brought the professional world of fine arts to TCJC. Also reolizing the talent of surraunding schools, the committee entertained musical groups from Texas Christian University, University of Texas at Arlington, and the University of Texas at Austin to add depth to its pragram.

Beverly Ihnfeldt served as student coordinator and Dr. James Luck, chairman of the Divisian of Fine Arts chaired the committee.

"In Tune With the Times" heralded the 1968-69 Forum Series. The Forums Committee, chaired by Barbara Allen, brought informative programs of national, local, and school issues before the college community.

This was done by bringing in outstanding national speakers as well as planning informative programs headed by students and faculty.

Noted speakers on the Forum regular series included author John Howard Griffin, author and sociologist Jean Pierre Hallet, attorney Melvin Belli, author Louis Lomax, state Senator Barbara Jordan, author and critic Penn Jones, and Pulitzer Prize winning author John Corroll.

The Forums Committee combined talents with the Hospitality Committee to present Women's Week and Men's Week. Molly Grubb, Miss Texas 1968; Bobbie Wygant, television star of WBAP-TV; and Dr. Joyce Brothers, noted psychologist and journalist appeared during Women's Week. Men's Week brought author Bill Sands, a former convict.

The Forums also provided students with a chance to sound off in several "Free-Speech Forums" held during activity period on the patio. Students expressed their opinions on school and national issues.

Official Hostesses Extend Welcome

The Hospitality Committee is a pleasure to behold at any campus function. The all-girl group is the largest of the eight activity groups. Members served as ushers, planned receptions, and poured punch as they fulfilled their role as official hostesses of the campus.

When not playing the hostesses-with-the-mostest role, the Hospitality Committee kept active. Members participated in a Vogue Wig Shop wig show, and heard Ellen Cabluck, bridal consultant for Stripling's Department Store, discuss "Plan Your Wedding." The committee also helped plan Women's and Men's Week.

A highlight of the fall was "Fashion Fair" co-sponsored by the Hospitality Committee and Neiman Marcus. "Fashion Fair" was a four-week charm and modeling course taught by specialists from Neiman Morcus.

At the end of the course fashion consultants from Neimon Marcus selected 12 girls as "Mamselles" as official models to represent the school in various foshion shows. During the spring, eight mamselles from TCJC attended the Texas Fashion Convention in Dollas, making the fashion committee a permanent and active subcommittee for hospitality.

ICC Makes Bunnies Work, Too

Dancing gives students a chance to relax after a long week of lectures and reading.

Girl-type Bunnies and Playboy Club decorations were all part of the props for the All-School Talent Show sponsored by the Inter-Club Council.

The show was ICC's chief claim to headlines during its first year as it quietly went about its business of promoting club unity and inter-club friendship.

An outgrowth of an organizational seminar held before school began in September, the council consists of one representative from each official organization on campus. It was chaired by David Tarrant, SGA first vice-president. The ICC served as a sounding board for discussing club problems. It publicized and supported the activities of campus organizations.

Besides the All-School Talent Show, the ICC conducted a sale of unclaimed lost and found items accumulated in the bursar's office.

For the last big social event of the year, the ICC converted the tennis courts and surrounding area into a Hawaiian paradise for a luau-type picnic. A battle of the bonds was held between "The Soul Purpose" and "The Jades." Between dances students voted for the band of their choice. Other entertainment included a bonfire and marshmellow roast and a limbo contest.

Six New Clubs Gain Recognition

Six new clubs this year met requirements outlined by the school Constitution.

The task of approving student organizations is assigned to the Organizations Committee which assists interested groups in forming new clubs,

Larry Wilcoxon, music instructor; Mrs. Betty Clark, English instructor; and Rolph Mann, library specialist; served as faculty advisors to the committee composed of Cindy Clark, Wilfred Jones, Sydney Michael, and Mark Mayr.

At mid-semester the committee conducted a survey to ascertain which organizations were active on campus and which ones were not. They also attempted to count the number of students actively taking part in club activities.

Newly organized clubs were Les Avolontes, Taurus, the Applied Music Society, Avante Garde, Folk Art Group, the United Students for Afro-American Advancement. These clubs brought the total number of active organizations on campus to 24. Several other groups expressed interest in forming new clubs.

PR Group Opens Communication

PUBLIC RELATIONS COMMITTEE Garry Ivey and Martha Bean tabulate student questionnaires evaluating school services and facilities.

Students may complain individually or collectively to the Public Relations Committee.

If complaints were scarce, the committee compiled and distributed questionnaires concerning the school to be sure that communication lines remained open between administration and students.

The committee was founded by Garry Ivey to serve as a grievance committee and to be a watchdog for the protection of student rights.

A major project of the Public Relations group was an evaluation given to 1000 students in freshman orientation classes. Material on these evaluations was then compiled and presented to students, faculty, and administration through the South Campus Reflector.

Ouestions ranged from the use of the library and student center to an evaluation of the cafeteria facilities, student organizations, and attendance at school social functions.

Object of the evaluation is to give students a voice in the administration of these facilities, and to point out both good and bad criticism in hope some facilities would meet more fully the needs of students.

Students Aid in Problem Solving

Clifton Barton takes a nap in the resting room while investigating new facilities of Health Services.

Five special committees placed students in advisory capacities on administrative affairs.

The Discipline Committee, made up of four students and four faculty members, were responsible for assisting in establishing disciplinary procedures and hearing serious discipline cases. Students on the committee were Delilah Durst, Peggy Graening, Ardess Moore, and Jim Simmons.

Working with the director of Library Services for the development and use of library resources were students Bill McClung and Christina Slater.

Dianna Vargas and John Townley performed similar services on the Instructional Media Committee.

Joe Cook, Trudy Herring, Howard Mitchell, and Janet Sellers worked with the director of Health Services, Mrs. Carol Bennett, in providing and maintaining effective health services for the campus.

Martha Bean, Debra McAdaa, Vanette Medlin, Charles Sheffield, and Fritz Wisdom served on the Auxiliary Enterprises Committee to advise the vice president on cafeteria and bookstore matters.

HEALTH ADVISORY COMMITTEE Mrs. Carol Bennett, director of Health Services; Janet Sellers; Howard Mitchell; Trudy Herring; and Bill McClung.

Special Events Planned With Care

The different, the fun, the unusual — these words might well have described the work of the Special Events Committee. Chaired by Glenda Oliver, the committee was responsible for planning the unique games, contests, and sacial events of the year.

The committee began its work during Howdy Week, with the preparation of the Howdy Week Student-Faculty Talent Show. The committee was also in charge of a special western day including games of chug-a-lug, egg toss, and tug-of-war.

As fall arrived, powder puff football made the scene. The committee defeated their freshmen opponents 12-0. Special Events then sponsored a bicycle race, and Christmas decoration activity in the Sub.

Elections and pageants filled the spring, and Special Events set the pace. Events included Mr. and Mrs. TCJC announcements, a formal style show to choose best dressed students, and the campus beauty pageant emceed by Miss Texas 1965, Mary Lou Butler.

Spring ended with special games and various events for Sadie Hawkins Day and games of chance on Las Vegas Day.

Young Judges Clear Traffic Courts

In much demand among students, though not necessarily popular, was the Traffic Committee. This committee heard appeals from students who received traffic tickets throughout the year. The committee was divided into two groups, with one group meeting each week to hear appeals from the students. Of the numerous traffic tickets issued each semester, approximately ane-fourth were appealed.

Should a student wish to appeal a decision of the cammittee, he had to take it to the Deon of Students. Bets were not high in his favor, though, as the Dean never reversed a decision of the committee.

Tickets were issued by campus security far speeding an campus, parking in faculty parking areas, the absence of a school parking sticker, and parking on the grass.

Six persons served on the 1968-69 committee all year. Thase persons included Sherry Bawden, Shirley Thamas, Mary Ann Hadley, William Hutsan, and Vicki Hansen. New members added in the spring included Stanley Richardson and Joe Hillary.

Jumping Jacks breezed past the All-Stars 32-19 for the intramural basketball championship. Jumping Jacks advanced to the finals by downing the Dingleberry Dip Ships, 53-42 and All-Stars bypassed the Faculty, 37-24, in the semi-finals.

Faculty team started out strong and threatened to waltz to the championship. However, All-Stars derailed their title hopes in the playoffs.

After completion of intramural activity, the All-Star team represented South Campus in two post season games. Chargers squeaked past the arch rival Northeast Vikings 57-54 in overtime play. Regulation play ended in a 49-49 tie. The lead changed hands twice in the extra time period before South Campus locked up the game.

Success evaded the Chargers in their next outing. Texas Wesleyan intramural champion Checkmates blistered South Campus, 91-72. Checkmates raced to a 50-27 halftime advantage and the Chargers never recovered. South Campus players were Sammy Rodriguez, Bill Tippett, Clarence Jenkins, Joe Mays, Clarence Walker, Bill Davis, Terrell Phillips, and Ron White.

District Makes Record Growth

Moving in giant steps, the TCJC District become the second largest in Texas in its second year of operation.

Fall enrollment for the district totaled 7,427, a 72 percent increase over last year's record enrollment for new junior colleges in the United States.

A professional staff of 238 held degrees from 145 different institutions, 106 of which were out-of-state. Of the 185 members of the instruction staff, nine held the rank of professor; 28, associate professor; 23, assistant professor; and 115, instructor.

Seven administrators worked in the downtown district office and eight others were assigned to each compus. Eighteen of the special services staff of 30 worked in the district office.

All district plans were made by seven trustees who began their work in July, 1965, two months before hiring Dr. Joe Rushing os the first employee of the system. The board was composed of two lawyers, two physicians, a lobor council executive, an industrial relations director, and a minister.

As Director of Community Relations, Don Newbury coordinates all news releases for the district. All faculty, staff, and administrators met together for three informal social events.

Vice-president C. A. Roberson accounts for all district funds. The book store, cafeteria, and security areas also come under his jurisdiction. He is responsible for all federal and state grant transactions and for the school budget. All contracts, construction, and purchases are made through his office.

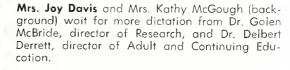

Last of the big spenders, Allon Smith (seated on right) signs purchase orders for more supplies and equipment while James Whitehead, ouditor, keeps accounts balanced. Their office staff includes Mrs. Billie Moorman, Miss Saundra Tidwell, Mrs. Betty Leggett, Mrs. Glenda Lindsey, Mrs. Ann Morrow, ond Mrs. Dorothy Parker.

Dr. Jimmie C. Styles, vice-president for Research and Development, is responsible for all technical ond vocational personnel and programs. He also supervises the computer center operation.

Mechanical Aids Personalize Class

Biology students could see a cot dissected on closed-circuit television. If anyone missed class or failed to comprehend the first showing, he could view the film later in the Programmed Learning Center.

English and history instructors could request the taping of a commercial show to be used for their students at a later time, and a mobil television unit with three cameras could be dispatched anywhere to record interviews with authors or sessions of the legislature.

To assist instructors, instructional media and library staffs helped produce video-tapes, filmstrips, transparencies, and other aids to make learning more effective.

In addition, the four lecture halls in the Science Building were equipped with review projection with control panels on the instructors desk so that he could face the class while manipulating the controls.

The language laboratory had 30 positions that enabled all the class to speak at one time and allowed the instructor to assist individual students without disturbing other members of the class.

The Media staff consisted of three and one-half professionals, a full-time technician, a full time secretary, and 28 student assistants. Students helped in production, repair, delivery, television, and the PLC.

Program for Individual Needs

South Campus doors were open ten hours a day while a dedicated staff offered assistance with problems as trivial os a broken date and as serious as a shattered life.

Students could enroll in their initial college instruction for a doctorate degree or their basic training in fire technology. More than 20 vacational and technical programs were available with other courses in final stages of approval; however 70 percent of the student body were enrolled in university parallel courses.

Anyone not wishing to pursue a degree could enrall in caurses of continuing education for such training as gift wrapping and switchboard aperation.

Basic Study programs provided one year of general education at college level with a broad cultural background.

A full staff of counselors offered academic, personal, and vocational guidance; and a director of financial aids assisted students with loans, scholarships, and employment.

All clubs had apen memberships, and students were included on most decision making committees.

Designed and equipped to assist physically handicapped students, ramps were available in buildings for easy access. Lowered drinking fountains, and wide sidewalks were also installed. Special parking places are reserved near all the main buildings.

Vocational Day Spurs Planning

Realistic Vocational Day, a streamlined career conference, highlighted activities sponsored by Basic Studies. Representatives from several private industries and government agencies spoke to students interested in various coreer facilities.

In keeping with coreer plonning, A. L. McElroy, Basic Studies Vertical Team chairman and Psychology instructor, planned several field trips, including visits to Arlington's General Motors Plant, American Airlines Stewardess College, and the Federal Aviation Complex.

Mrs. Claire Corbett's Vertical Team treked to Botanic Gardens and the Museum of Natural History. Communication classes wrote a diary-type journal, while social science closses had lectures on sex and love, and natural science classes worked with among other things typing blood

An innovation in college teaching, the Basic Studies Department is the only one of its kind in the State of Texas. The Basic Studies Section is designed to oid students in preparing for the university parollel program at colleges or universities. The program accepts all students regardless of previous academic achievement or ACT test results. Headed by Timothy Dovies, Basic Studies consists of five study areas.

Believing in full participation, Elmer Triplett, donotes at the annual "Bleed-in."

Kathleen Altizer and Bobby Davis learn to use the IBM card sorter in data processing classes.

Secretaries

Office Occupations students begon a year of activities with an open house for their majors in September in the Living Room. During National Secretaries Week in April a seminar was held on campus while a certified public secretary spoke to classes.

Students interested in legal secretary work participated in a mock trial at the County Court House, where they went through procedures of covering court reporting.

The general Office Occupations program of study is for students desiring training in general office work in which shorthand or in-depth study of accounting is not a requirement. Training is offered in several areas for which job entrance may be available.

The Office Occupations Building contains class-rooms for courses in shorthand, typing, accounting, bookkeeping, economics, business machine, secretarial and office practice, and laboratory equipment.

Specifically designed for students anticipating employment after two years of college, accounting and bookkeeping involve the performance of functions necessary to the orderly arrangement of all financial data of an organization.

James P. Courtney, data processing instructor, prepares to load the console.

TCU's poet-in-residence, Dr. William Skelly Burfard, tald students the essence of creativity is in bringing one's self to some form of expression. Speaking under the auspices of the English Department, Dr. Burford initiated the Creative Writing Contest which was climaxed by the Awards Banquet in May.

French classes explored De Gaulle's country this semester via several slides and dialogue series prepared by Mrs. Martha Halmes and Mrs. Jane Harper, French instructors. Dialogue portions of the series were mastered in verbal drills during class. Taped dialogues were also used weekly in the foreign language laboratory along with other learning devices.

Students in advanced reading classes often read ten novels a semester. The exercise aided in the development of speed skills. Though speed reading is included in the two reading courses offered, main emphasis is placed on comprehension skills, vocabulary development, and critical reading.

During newspaper and yearbook lob periods and in their spare time, journalism students produced the "Reflector," newspaper; "Carillan," yearbook; and "Summa," magazine. Sheriff Lon Evans and other speakers spoke to reporting classes.

Dr. James Luck, chairman of Fine Arts Division, pauses in the Fine Arts courtyord prior to publication of his book "Bosic Musicionship for Classroom Teachers."

Pianists Produce Electronic Sounds

Electronic sound invaded music classrooms through an innovative Wurlitzer electronic piano system consisting of a teacher piono-communication center and six student electronic pianos.

Operating on the same principal as a language lab complete with lab earphones, the system enabled instructors to teach several students with each pupil progressing at his own speed.

"Of Thee I Sing," the student production of George Gershwin's musical satīre on political compaigns, was presented in the Carillon Theater in the fall. The production used slides and abstract settings to create the confused political effect and demonstrate the influence of the multimedia. Other South Campus theater productions included "I Remember Mama," "The Lesson," and "The New Tenant."

Mediums ranging from wool yarn to cooper offered expressive devices for student artists. In courses of design, life, and painting, realists sketched such objects as buildings, live models and flowers.

Members of the Madrigals, A Cappella Choir, and TCJC Singers performed in Turandot, the third production of the Fort Worth Opera Guild. Approximately 145 students porticipate in the three groups.

Directing the choir class, Leonard McCormick reaches for high C in one of the many concerts given during the year.

Scuba Rates Popular Among Men

Scuba diving, offered by few other colleges, is one of the 20 different octivities offered by Physical and Health Education. Most popular course among male students, Scubo is taught in the official Olympia size heated pool equiped with underwater observation.

Housed in the Physical Education Building, the pool is the largest indoor facility of its type in Fort Worth, and is geared for possible national swimming competition. A goal of the department is to teach swimming to every graduate.

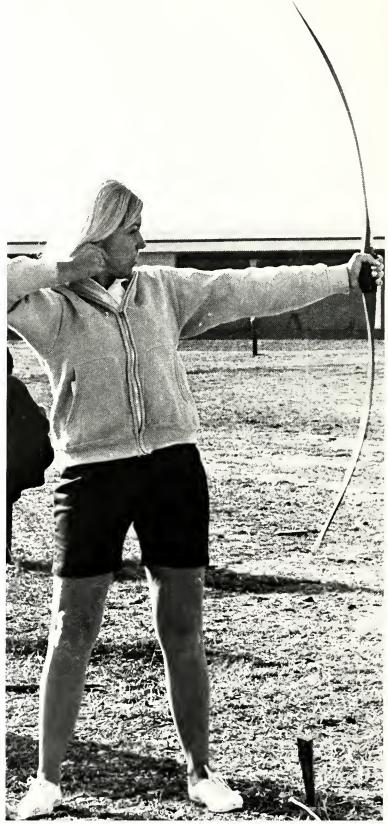

In addition to the pool, the PE Building includes a gymnasium, with seating for 1500 at a basketball game or 2500 when the floor is used for additional seating area; six enclosed handball courts complete with balconies from which coaches may instruct, and others may watch; weight training room; dance studio; and gymnastic room.

Of 1450 enrolled in PE for spring, modern dance was a favorite among women while weight training scored high with men. Taught for the first time this spring, golf goined in popularity with men and women.

Besides basic PE other courses include tennis, diving, badminton, volleyball, basic conditioning, squash, field hockey, and doncing.

On a clear but gusty January day, a completely rebuilt 1947 Ranica Champ Airplane slid down the runway at Luck Field and remained airbarne for 40 minutes.

The Champ successfully praved her crew's capabilities. Homer Smith, director of aerospace technology and 19 students rebuilt the airplane from a large mass of nuts, balts, and various other airplane parts acquired during the spring semester.

While the aeraspoce plane flew high, nurses practiced mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage on a life-size manikin knawn as ResuscaAnne. Nurses also practiced intravenous injection methods using sponge rubber blocks fitted with "veins" of rubber tubing through which water was pumped.

Fram fashian shows to studying white rots, the Home Ecanomics Department affered a variety of courses this year, as the Chemistry Department planned for the use of an infrared spectroscope and a gas chromatograph next year.

Approximately 78 students used more than $75,000 worth of equipment to learn most phases of automative repoir and technology while electronics students had over $150,000 worth of equipment with which to pursue academic achievements.

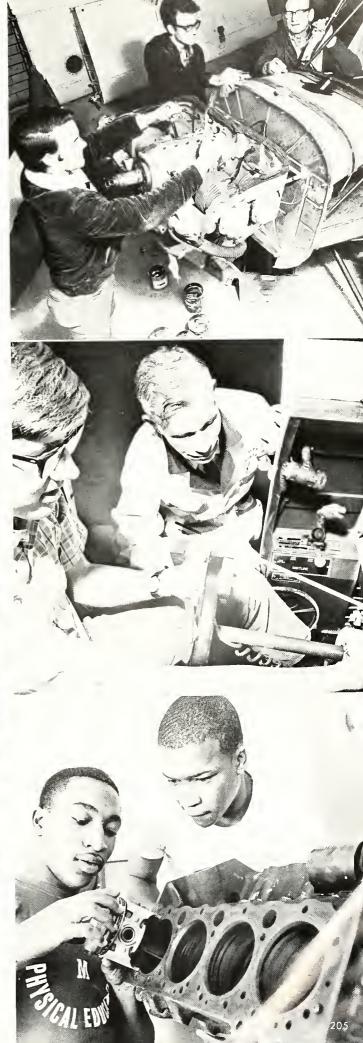

The complex wiring of an electronics board is investigated.

Reby Cary, history instructor, gives a factual demonstration of Negro history.

Skulls Level History Stratifications

History of man was realized by anthropology students examining five types of skull casts in Dr. Robert Platt's class. The oldest skull cast was made from an original skull discovered in 1923.

Examined by Dr. Roymond Dart of the University of Wintrasand, South Africa, this specimen, known as "Dort's Child," was a seven-year-old male living more than a million years ago. Dr. Plott owns a skull cast of Midland Man, originally found in 1953 near Midland, Texas. Several dart points and arrow heads were found near the scene, indicating the speciman was of Indian descent.

TCJC was one of 10 schools in the US chosen to participate in a sociological research project by the American Association for Junior Colleges.

An innovation in aircraft escape systems, the F111 escape module designed by General Dynamics, was shown on film to psychology students as they toured General Dynamics. The trip centered on the human factors engineering section of GD and physiological problems relating to topics covered during lecture periods.
